Gurpreet Singh Ladhroia

Web Developer - Freelancer

Ontario, Canada

Summary

I would like to have this opportunity to introduce myself as a tech enthusiastic person whose life is all about computers and programming. My name is Gurpreet Singh Ladhroia. Ever since my father bought me a computer, there were hardly some days in which I would not be on my computer learning something new, doing something interesting.

I graduated in 2015 and start working at Bathinda based well known IT company where I got real-life experiences on a back-end and front-end website development. I am designing, building and maintaining web applications for the last 4 years and helped many startup companies, small businesses and individuals to grow their businesses online. In my entire work period, I worked with more than 200 clients and it is a big accomplishment for me. While working in this field for over 4 years, I have developed strong skills in backend and frontend technologies of all platforms.

All of my past endeavors makes me feel highly motivated and energetic at adopting new attitudes and encountering new things. This is definitely why I have chosen to keep improving myself by continuing my studies in Canada.

Right now, In the job search, I am looking for a fast-growing high tech company, that's working on creative, innovative and challenging projects, that I can help while growing on my career. I know I can be an asset to any company in any situation.
